Dear Gwen,

I'll always remember the good times we had in our math class. School days will always be a happy memory, especially "that math class."

FOREWORD

What a change has taken place in our school in the last fifty years. Just to mention a few examples, let's look at our enrollment. In 1900 we had approximately ninety students; today we have almost a thousand. Also, our school has grown from an old ten-room wooden structure to the modern fifty-room building of today.

In bringing you this year's Chintimini, it's our hope that we have shown you how our school has kept pace with the progress of the world in the last fifty years, that it will remind you of your happy years in high school, and make you proud of the school from which you came.

LEGEND OF CHINTIMINI

When the Indians roamed this valley
Before the white man came,
There lived an Indian maiden,
Chintimini, her name.

She was a fearless heroine;
For from the mountain's height,
She sought the neighboring enemies
As they approached to fight.

With smoke she'd send a signal
To her tribe below,
And they, warned by Chintimini,
Would advance and defeat the foe.

Then one day the battle ceased,
And 'twas as they had feared;
Though they searched for her in vain,
Chintimini had disappeared.

Her people in their sorrow,
In honor of this maid,
Named the mount, Chintimini,
And thus her deed repaid.

Why do we this tale relate?
It is just this, you see —
Our annual we have named
To perpetuate her mem'ry.

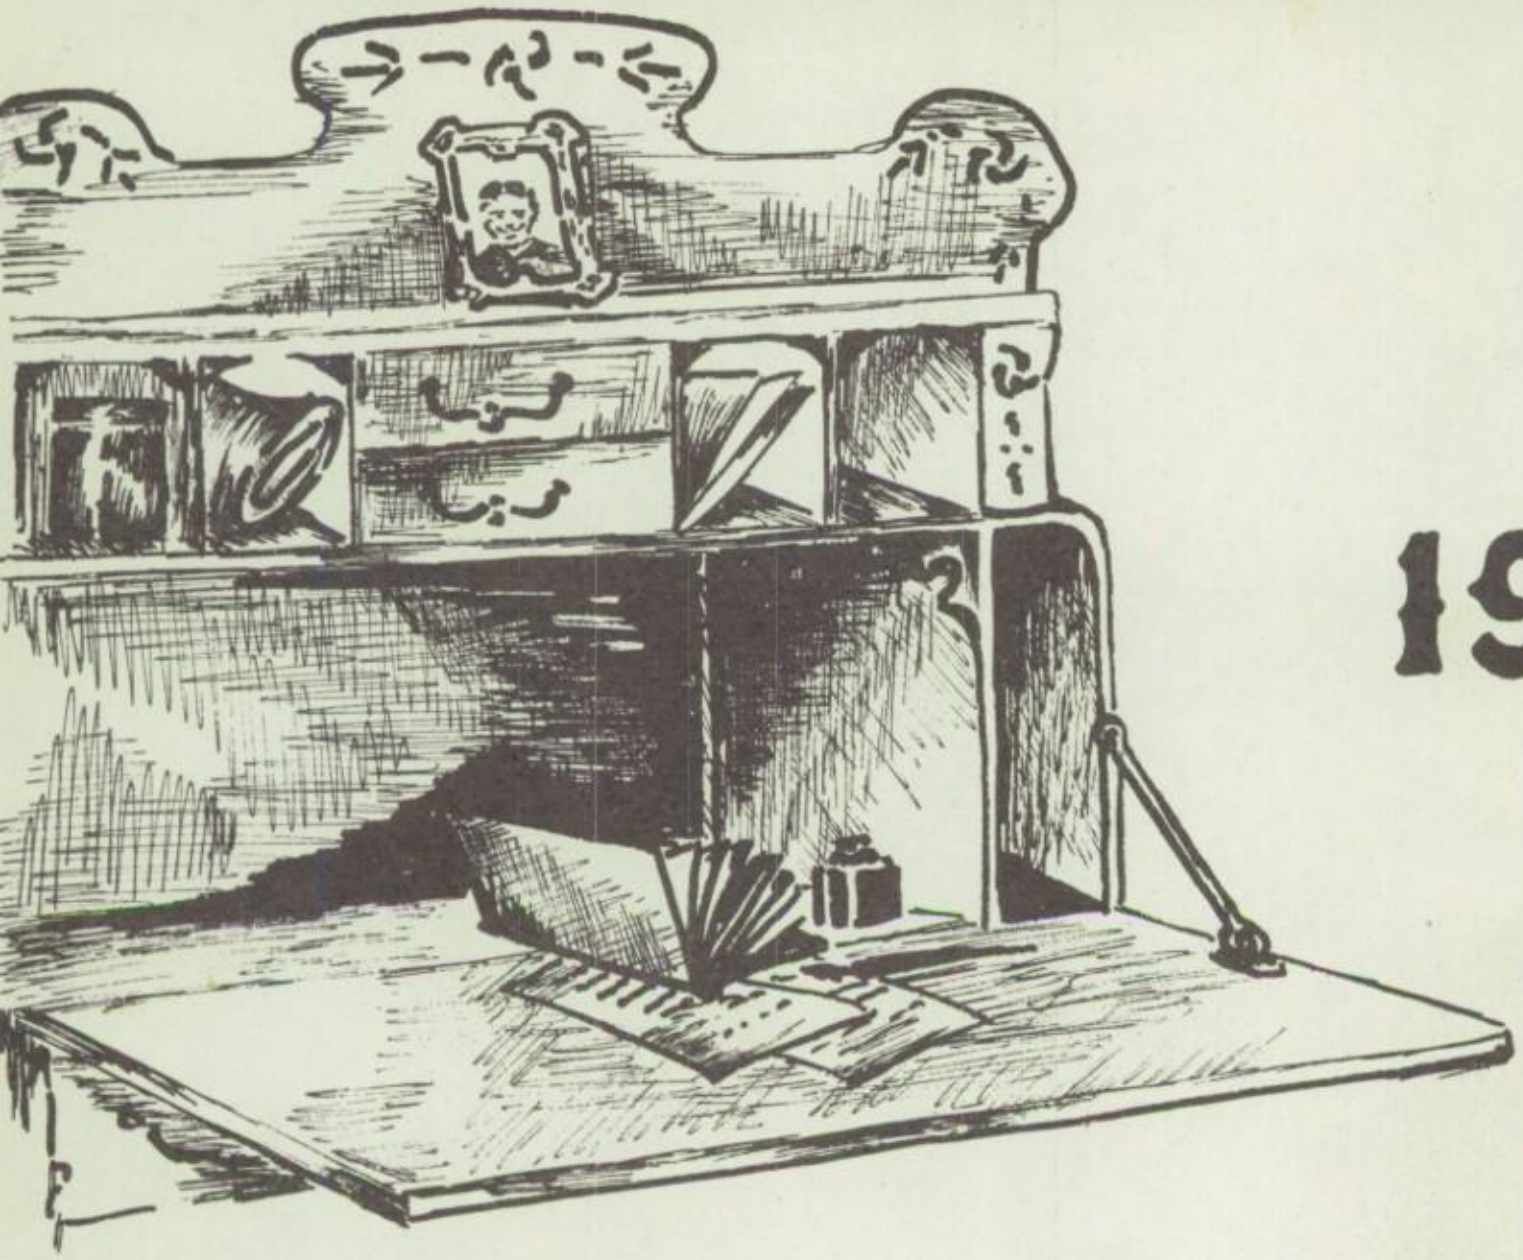
—Ellen Gilfillan

DEDICATION

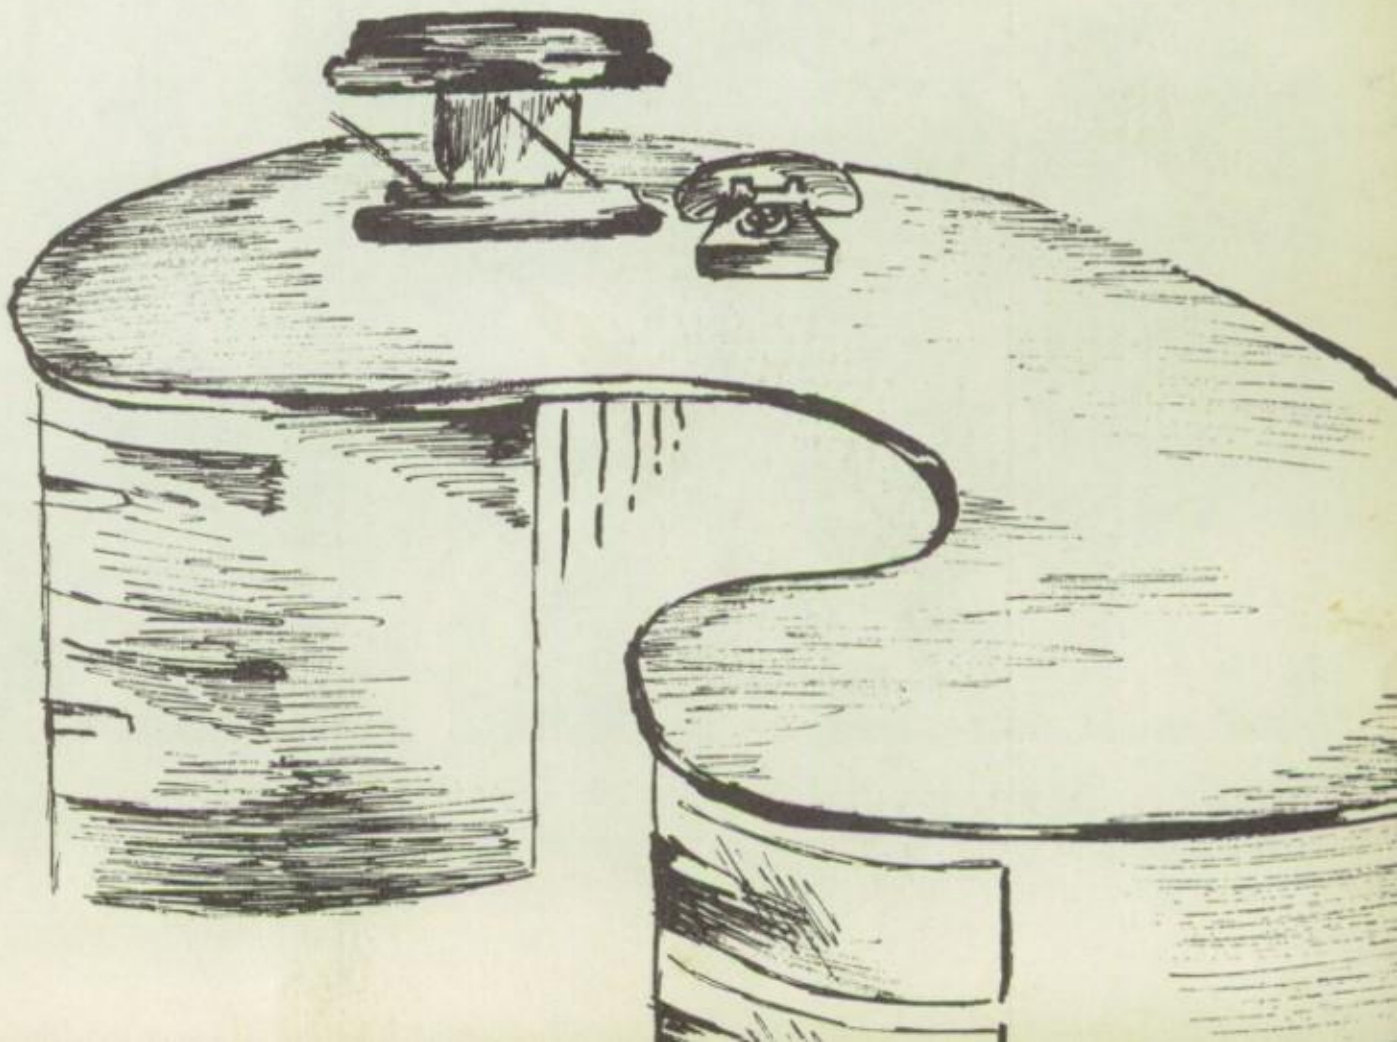
To Miss Vera Horner, who has for many years been respected and admired for her inspirational teaching and guidance, we, the students of Corvallis High School, dedicate this 41st edition of the Chintimini.

Miss Horner teaches American Problems and advises the Senior Class and the International Relations Club. In the past years she has been the advisor of the Chintimini.

ADMINISTRATION



1900



1950

The publication of this year's Chintimini comes at the mid-point of the twentieth century. Fifty years is a long time when considered in relation to one person's life. It is a short time when considered in relation to the beginning, growth and life of an institution.

Our present American High School had its beginning in Boston, Massachusetts, in 1821 and has grown rapidly ever since. The greatest growth however of the high school in our American educational system has come during the first fifty years of this century. In 1900 only about ten percent of the boys and girls of high school age were in high school. Today—fifty years later—nearly ninety percent of the pupils of high school age are enrolled. Thus we see that the percentage of those enrolled and not enrolled have just about reversed themselves.

There are many reasons for this growth of our high school. Tremendous industrial development, two world wars, economic depressions, economic prosperity and many other major events have helped develop this great education institution. Personally, however, I like to think that it has come about as a result of people believing that social, civic, economic political and moral education will bring peace to the world.

Your teachers have devoted the last four years to giving you to giving you the best education possible so that you may not only be prepared to help make ""A" and "H"" bombs but that you will know how best to control their use for the good of mankind.

Congratulations and best wishes for success are extended to the Class of 1950.

TO THE CLASS OF 1950

We of the administration wish to take this opportunity to extend our congratulations and best wishes to the Class of 1950.

Having followed closely the high school career of most of the members of the class, we will be very interested in each individual's future development. It is hoped that the leadership and initiative shown by the group will carry on to outstanding community leadership and service. We sincerely hope that Corvallis High has made a positive contribution to each individual of the class.

As those who went before us said it would, it's ended, and all too soon. Looking back at those incomparable years, we wonder how we could have been exposed to so much knowledge and have absorbed so little.

Innocent, child-like, and unsuspecting, we entered the door of higher education as lowly sophomores, although the addition of two lower grades raised our position somewhat. The desire to look, talk and act like the mighty seniors waxed hot within us. However, the seniors soon trimmed us down to what they considered the correct size. Realizing that we needed some good leaders to guide us through the maze, we elected Roy Strand, president, Jerry Bauer, vice-president; Dick Humble, secretary, and Robert Harlan, treasurer.

As proof of our untapped resources in ability, we staged a very successful all-school New Year's Eve dance. Mrs. Evelyn Jacobs was our class adviser. We ended the year with a picnic at Colorado Lake Park.

As juniors we began to wield our influence in athletics, clubs and dramatics. For our class play we chose the comedy-mystery, "Home Sweet Homicide." Always on the job at football and basketball games was the junior sales committee. We again sponsored an all-school New Year's Eve dance. The theme "Just a Memory" was the dominant strain in our beautiful and never to be forgotten junior prom. A huge memory book stood in the center of the dance floor, while around the edge was a picket fence entwined with flowers and pictures of memorable school events.

The officers this very successful year were Jerry Bauer, president; Bob Goff, vice-president; Pat Warner, secretary, and George Root, treasurer. Our hard working advisers were Miss Olga Carlson and Mr. C. S. Strong. A picnic at Colorado Lake Park wrote the finis to the year.

Almost without knowing where the time had gone, we found ourselves on top of the pile as seniors. We had our thumbs in all the various organizations, publications and honoraries, and we liked to think that nothing could happen unless we were there to help it along. Although we regarded ourselves as very serious minded and scholarly, we unlimbered enough to give the smash comedy "Inner Willy's Brainstorm."

Wielding the gavel this final year was Bob Goff, while Chuck Vallette held down the vice-president's position. Barbara Hearing balanced the books and Dorothy Wetherbee wrote the minutes. Advisers were Miss Vera Horner, Mr. Fred Quale and Miss Ethel Ranney.

So it ends, three wonderful years packed with cherished memories. We'd like to think that the school won't be able to proceed without us, but we realize that no one's indispensable. We only hope that those who follow us will have as many pleasant memories as we, on leaving our alma mater.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Junior Class had a successful year by combining the usual, Junior Sales, the class picnic, rally dance sponsorships, the Junior Prom for the Seniors, and the unusual, selling Spartan stickers for car windows, and providing for the building of the Junior Sales booth attached to the football stadium and, finally, the usual class play with the unusual plot of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court".

All these and many smaller things were made possible by the leadership of the class officers, who were: Marlin De Haas, President, Jim Sherburne, Vice President, Nancy Reardon, Secretary, and Betty Perin, Treasurer. The advisers of the class were Miss Olga Carlson, Mr. Stanley Strong, and Mr. William Reedy.

DRAMA

1900

1950

To Miss Lura Keiser, who has for many years done outstanding work in directing the dramatic productions of the high school, we, the editors, respectfully dedicate the drama section of this year's annual.

Miss Keiser had taught in Corvallis for thirty-nine years before she retired last year. She has given generously of her time and talents to make each play a success. She is remembered with admiration by the students of Corvallis High School not only for her excellent direction of plays, but also for her capable and interesting teaching of English.

INNER WILLY'S BRAINSTORM

The Senior Class Play, "Inner Willy's Brainstorm" was presented November 17th under the capable direction of Mrs. Ruby Smith.

This comedy was the story of Willoughby, a reserved boy who was attending Collins College. One day on his way to class, Willoughby had the irresistible impulse to run around the track. When the football coach saw how good he was, he wanted Willoughby on the team. But Willoughby thought football was too rough. Sally Bishop, who was a reporter for the school paper, the coach, the football players, and a group of girl admirers all try to get Willoughby to join the team.

Things were further complicated by Willoughby's three maiden aunts who come to visit him, along with the girl from next door, Marybelle, who was always tired. At this point, Willoughby's conscience decides to step in and straighten things out. Inner Willy was dressed in a gray cheesecloth costume, and although he had a hard time making Willoughby do some things, everything turns out well. Many laughs arise from the fact that Willoughby and the audience are the only ones who can see Innner Willy. Willoughby also had four roomates who borrowed just about everything he owned.

A CONNECTICUT YANKEE IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT

"A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," under the able direction of Mr. William Reedy, was presented by the Junior Class on February 2nd and 3rd in the high school auditorium.

It is the story of Hank, a Connecticut Yankee, who is taken back to King Arthur's time, where he is held captive until his eclipse of the sun makes him the idol of the court. He immediately sets out to bring King Arthur's court up to a twentieth century basis, but all does not run smoothly. The wicked Queen, Morgan Le Fay, and Merlin, the court magician, attempt to overthrow the kingdom only to be stopped by Elaine who calls Hank to the rescue.

The roads were slippery with ice so the audience wasn't very large, but they were kept laughing by the antics of Clarence, the way Merlin was always putting a curse on something, Sagramor's "bah" and fantastic tales, and the modern conveniences that Hank installed.

DRUMS OF DEATH

The all school play, sponsored by Thalian, "Drums of Death," was given in the evening on April 20. A matinee performance was given April 18. Mr. William Reedy was the director.

A group of oddly contrasting people arrive at midnight at the half-ruined mansion in a desolate lagoon. They have been summoned by a telegram which they quickly discover is false. But the discovery comes too late for them to escape from the place where weird forces threaten their very lives. Bailey, the relative of most of them has disappeared. They question the others, the half-mad housekeeper, the octoroon girl, the surly Haitian Negro, and Harley, whom they scarcely know whether to trust or fear the most. They struggle to solve the mystery of the place. Yet always to break the tension, there is laughter at the absurdities of the seriff and the saucy Amelia.

FOOTBALL

Del Scott Sr., Head Coach

Al Pichē, Asst. Coach

Football, 1949-50 style, has come and gone with the ease of a delicate walking elephant. One thing can be sure, the Spartans didn't play in the state tournament; never-the-less they had a team with better ability than the opponents they played. Such stars in the forward wall as Gary Babcock, Don Ellison, and Bill Champlain opened holes for the better than average Spartan backs of Del Scott Jr., Ron Siegrist, Glen Harvey, and Sophomore Duane Speers.

Although the Corvallis footballers didn't hit the victory parade every game, they most assuredly threw a scare into every opponent they matched prowess with. Against Marshfield, in the first game of the season, the Sparts went down by the count of 25-13. The game was considerably closer than the score indicated. After the first loss the Sparts traveled to Springfield where they proceeded to open the "Big Six" with a victory over the Millers. Returning home, the Sparts took on the Lava Bears from Bend. For the first time in years, the Sparts under the talented toe of Richard Beyerlein set back the Bears 14-13.

Perhaps the biggest spot in Corvallis' football year was at Salem, when the Sparts racked up a 6-0 upset victory over the Vikings. It was hard fought all the way, but Corvallis clearly had the upper hand. They camped within the mud of Salem's goal four times, but each time a fumble kept them from pay dirt. It was the last game of the year for the Sparts, and it proved to be a successful one. Corvallis did not play Albany this year, breaking a string of games that began in 1911 and went uninterrupted until the present date.

Yes, Corvallis with a four win, four loss record, really had a much better season than the score indicated.

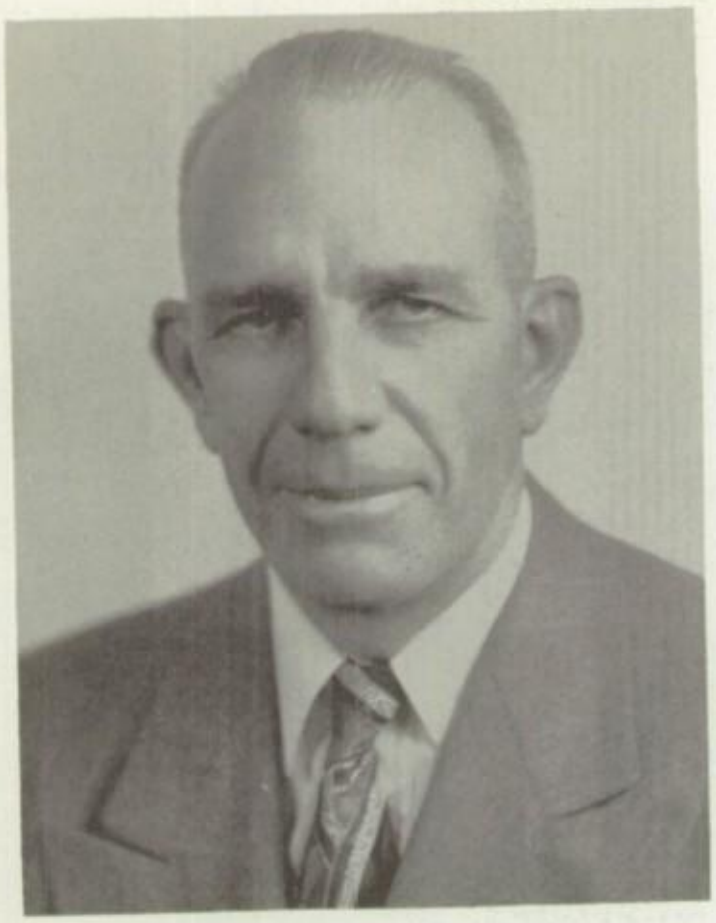
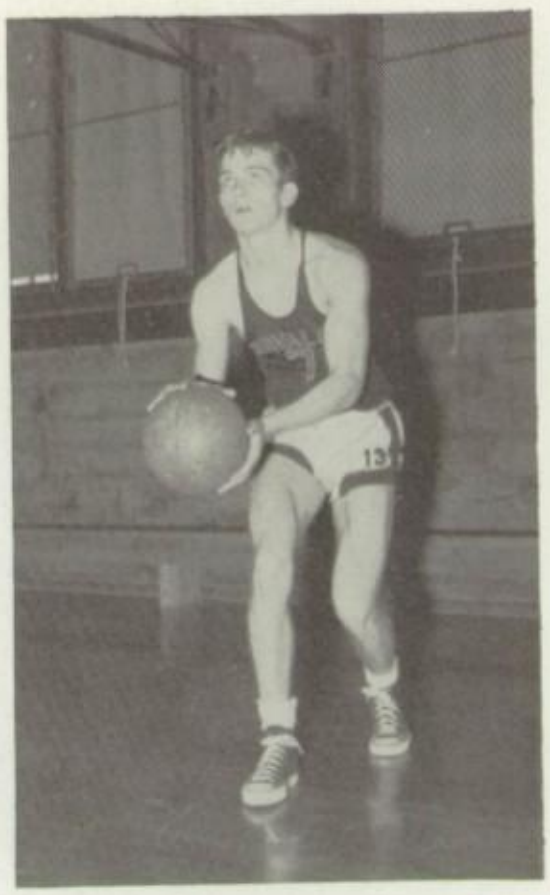
BASKETBALL



Fred Osborn, Coach



Babcock, Forward — Capt.

With an ample aggregation of good athletes putting the ball through the twine, Coach Fred Osborn led his aspiring and perspiring proteges to a much better than average season.

A good critic can always tell what is wrong with something, but only the best can tell how to improve. Such was the case of Osborn's two assistants, Ward Paldanius and Ernie Neal, as they sought out the weak threads in the Spartan weave. This also departed a standing of good sportsmanship. It was said that the state tournament whistle tooters voted the Corvallis quintet the most easily refereed team in the tournament.

It was hard for a standout player to be chosen from the Corvallis team as they all contributed heavily to the Spartan successes. Dick Humble helped to keep the team calm and led them in plays; Roy Strand, tall and lanky center proved his worth by leading the scorers. Gary Babcock, with his aggressive ball handling kept the opposition always hopping. Gordon Packer although sick part of the time showed that he could keep up with the best of them, despite all. Don Taylor supplied the football tactics under the backboards and also was a high scorer. Ray Newton was the scrapping guard who consistently had the opposition worried for fear he would snatch the ball from their very arms. Von Summers provided the smooth touch to the S p a r t o n offense. Such, in words only, is a description of a team that wasn't scheduled to go far, but copped sixth place in the s t a t e tournament.

STATE TOURNAMENT

For the second time in three years, CHS made the state tournament. Although this time they didn't win the tourney, they provided the upset of the tournament.

In the first round the Sparts come out on the long end of a small score, 39-37, by downing the Milwaukie Maroons. This game was hard-fought all the way and the score could have gone either way, but the Spartans were ahead at the end and that's all that counts.

The second game was with Marshfield and proved to be the upset of upsets. The under dog and under-rated Sparts, perhaps playing their best game of the season, almost had the Marshfield laddies begging for a basket. The Spartan defense was at its best, and mostly because of this, they were able to win.

After having lost to Salem twice previously to this tournament, the Sparts followed suit with another loss. Corvallis had its defense sharp, but so did Salem and they went on to win by the count of 33-26. It was Salem's aggressive type of playing ball plus their defensive play that gave them the victory.

The last night Corvallis showed the effects of two well played games, plus a bruising defeat by Salem, when they were trounced by Roosevelt High of Portland.

Corvallis ended up as winner of sixth place in the tournament. They were also voted as the team that displayed the best sportsmanship by the referees.

How's the air up there Von?

TRACK

Harris Olson, Coach

The 1950 track team was well stocked with seniors and ability. Coach Harris Olson, gunning for his second successful track season in three years, worked his charges into a highly potent machine. Early in the season the thinclads traveled to Portland where they came out with a tie for third place in the Hill Militay relays. Some 23 teams were entered in the tournament but Corvallis's relay team of Jim Williams, George Root, Glen Harvey and Bob Goff outdistanced their nearest rivals by a good safe margin. Bob Goff was the season's Captain and also one of the main point producers on the team.

Although Coach Piche' lost heavily through graduation and started the year with a lot of green players, he molded them into a smooth working ball club.
